FROM THE DESK OF THE MINISTER

The Youth sub-sector belongs to the general economic services sector of the Kenyan economy. The sub sector has strong linkages with other sectors of the economy and contributes towards the employment and wealth creation targets of the country. In a rapidly changing global environment and social systems, the youth are an integral stakeholder in the development process.

This Strategic Plan outlines the issues, concerns and challenges affecting the youth. These issues are Youth and Employment; Youth Empowerment and Participation; Youth Education and Training; Youth and Information Communication Technology; Youth and Health; Youth, Crime and Drugs; Youth and Environment; Youth, Leisure, Recreation and Community Service.

The Strategic Plan further outlines the objectives and strategies that my Ministry will pursue to enable the youth of this country fully participate and hence contribute to the achievement of vision 2030. This will enable Kenya to become globally competitive and an emerging economy.

Our overall goal therefore is to empower the youth of this country, so that they can make right choices in life, become aware of the implications of those choices, make informed decisions freely, take action based on those decisions and accept responsibility for the consequences of those actions.

It is to be noted that this Strategic Plan builds on the national aspirations already stipulated in the Economic Recovery Strategy for Wealth and Employment Creation (2003-2007). Under my watch, the Ministry of State for Youth Affairs remains committed to the full realization of the objectives of this Strategic Plan. With the assured commitment of the entire staff of the Ministry, I believe that the plan that we have prepared will be implemented. Indeed, I undertake to provide periodical briefings and feedback to the Kenyan public.

Hon. (Dr.) Mohammed Abdi Kuti, EGH, MP
Minister of State for Youth Affairs
PREFACE

This Strategic Plan articulates the strategic vision and mandate of the Ministry of State for Youth Affairs until the year 2012. It articulates the shared Vision, Mission and core functions; policy priorities, strategic objectives, and resource requirements that will be required between 2007 and 2012.

In developing this Strategic Plan, we have recognized the Ministry’s strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats. Similarly the Ministry has been able to fully appreciate some of the underlying challenges facing the youth.

Whilst many challenges face young people, undoubtedly the most acute is the inability to access employment – the lack of opportunities to earn a decent and honest living. It is this that drives young people into crime and drugs, and into a general state of hopelessness and despair. The issue of creating employment opportunities for the youth (formal, informal and self employment) needs therefore to be addressed urgently and with the kind of resources, focus and commitment as has been directed at HIV/AIDS. There is need for a “Marshal” plan as was used to re-settle landless people after independence. In fact, an investment in building the capacity of Kenyan youth by targeted interventions and in addressing their specific needs in terms of education, skills training and gainful employment is seen as imperative for national development and the realization of the Millennium Development Goals in Kenya by 2015. This Strategic Plan offers a coherent, ambitious but realizable road map to address this and other challenges facing young people.

Finally, it is our anticipation that just as the Ministry engaged key stakeholders in the preparatory process of this Strategic Plan, it will continue to solicit the full engagement of all relevant stakeholders as we move on to actualize the strategies and activities outlined in this document. Indeed, our collective undertaking as a Ministry is to re-dedicate ourselves to the important task of successfully implementing this Strategic Plan. Towards this end, the Implementation Matrix becomes a critical component of the Plan, and all identified activities will be translated into the day-to-day assignments of the Ministry and its departments. The Ministry will continuously review its operational processes to facilitate the smooth implementation of this Strategic Plan. We are confident that implementing this plan will address in a holistic manner the entire spectrum of youth development.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Strategic Plan (2007-2012) is a positive step by the Ministry of Youth Affairs (MOYA) in addressing the many underlying challenges facing the youth in Kenya. Youth issues are multifaceted and this calls for coherent and comprehensive Strategic Planning by the Ministry. The term “Youth” is used to describe young women and men aged 15 to 30 years, moving between childhood and adulthood.

This Strategic Plan therefore, sets out the road map that will direct the future course of the Ministry. It articulates the mission, vision and strategic goals and objectives as well as the strategies that the Ministry intends to follow in the next five years. The goal of the Ministry is to help develop a country where young people grow up knowing that they have opportunities and can make positive contribution to society.

The Strategic Plan is presented in six chapters. Chapter 1 provides background information about the youth in Kenya. Chapter 2 gives an institutional review detailing the mandate, core functions, vision, mission, policy priorities and core values. Chapter 3 presents a situational analysis of the prevailing global, social, economic, political, technological and natural environment. It also details the key stakeholders, challenges facing the youth and provides an analysis of the Ministry’s strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats (SWOT). The chapter further elaborates the eight strategic themes to be addressed and the ministerial organization. Strategic objectives, specific activities and outputs to be pursued during the implementation period, are addressed in Chapter 4 while Chapter 5 focuses on the resources required as well as their mobilization. Chapter 6 presents the motoring and evaluation processes.

The current mandate of the Ministry is derived from Presidential Circular No. 1/2007 on Organization of the Government of the Republic of Kenya. According to the Circular, the Ministry is responsible for the National Youth Policy, National Youth Service, Youth Resource Centres, Youth Development, Youth Polytechnics and the Youth Enterprise Development Fund.

The core functions include:

- Formulating, implementing, coordinating, reviewing and monitoring youth development policies;
- Facilitating youth participation in the development processes;
- Coordinating and monitoring youth led initiatives;
- Advocating and promoting youth led initiatives;
- Developing youth resource centers; and
- Facilitating leadership, entrepreneurship and life skills training.

In order to execute its mandate and core functions, the Ministry is currently organized into three core departments namely:

- Department of Youth Development
- Department of Youth Training
- National Youth Service

The departments are supported by General Administration and Planning.
The Ministry has also developed eight thematic areas to guide its effort towards the achievement of its mission and vision. The strategic themes include: Youth and Employment; Youth Empowerment and Participation; Youth, Education and Training; Youth and Information Communication Technology; Youth and Health; Youth, Crime and Drugs; Youth and Environment; and Youth, Leisure, Recreation and Community Service. In each of the eight areas, the Ministry will be implementing a number of activities, projects and programmes over the plan period.

Resource mobilization is critical to the implementation of the Strategic Plan. Estimates of the resources required to implement the Plan have been provided after costing activities, projects and programmes. It emerges that close to Kshs. 111.4 billion is required. The Gok budgetary provisions have been projected at Kshs. 49.7 billion over the period. This gives rise to a deficit of approximately Kshs. 61.7 billion that will have to be raised through other sources including fundraising from development partners.

To ensure value for money, the Ministry will put in place an effective Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) System to monitor and evaluate the implementation progress of all its projects and programs. The M&E will provide the review and control element necessary for the achievement of strategic objectives. An implementation matrix has also been developed to assist in tracking the progress.
CHAPTER 1

1.0 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

Young people in Kenya today live in complex and challenging times. The political and social turmoil of the 1990s left scars that today are being borne disproportionately by young people. By 2000, Kenya’s economy was at its lowest point since independence, with 56 percent of the population living in poverty and a negative growth rate of 0.2 percent. This economic environment inevitably had a destructive impact on the social fabric of the country. Despite this gloomy picture however, developments in more recent years have given grounds for optimism. One such development has been the creation of a Ministry of State for Youth Affairs.

Seventy-five percent of Kenya’s population is under 30 years of age. Young people – using the term to include those between 15 and 30 years of age – number 10.8million or about 32 percent of the 2005 population projection. Of these, 57% are female and they form about 60% of the total active labour force in the country. However due to high levels of unemployment, most of them have not been absorbed in the job market. Table 1.1 provides the population distribution among age groups of the youth.

A further breakdown of Kenya’s population by province is shown in Table 1.2. The patterns of distribution of Kenya’s youth closely follow those of the national population, with majority of young people living in the Rift Valley, which is Kenya’s largest and most densely populated province. The lowest concentration of young people is found in North Eastern Province, an arid area and Kenya’s least populated province.

Existing data further shows that young people engaged in entrepreneurship are setting up informal micro-enterprises as an alternative to formal employment and as a way to achieve their independence. However, other information suggests that young people still regard the formal sector as their main employment option. Despite efforts over the last decade to create an entrepreneurial culture, the impression is that self-employment is the second or third choice for those who cannot find wage employment.

The manner in which we address youth related issues is too important to be left to chance. A healthy and vibrant youth population is a valuable asset to our nation for both what it offers now and in the future. This Strategic Plan for the Ministry of Youth Affairs (MOYA) was prepared to help develop a country where young people grow up knowing that they have opportunities and can make positive contribution to society. The youth should be facilitated to know that they can influence their own lives through choices they make and skills they possess. They should feel good about who they are and what they can offer.

To address youth problems and more specifically unemployment and empowerment, efforts have been made by the Government to initiate youth development programmes through policy documents such as: Sessional Paper Number 4 of 2005, Sessional Paper Number 2 of 1992 on Small Scale and Jua Kali Enterprises, Development Plan 1997-2001, and the Poverty Eradication Plan 1999-2015, among others.

Despite the above, there are a number of challenges faced while implementing youth policies. These include:

- High population growth rate among the youth which exerts pressure on available resources.
- Low economic growth rate.
- An education system in the country that produces graduates who are neither properly equipped for entry to the job market nor possess the necessary life skills.
- Government Ministries, youth organizations and international agencies that have their own individual youth programmes and policies which are not harmonized. This leads to duplication of efforts and limited impact
- Lack of adequate resources to run youth programmes.
- Existing structures within public and private sectors and the prevailing attitudes that do not provide an enabling environment for the youth to participate in decision-making, planning and implementation processes.

1.2 How the Strategy was developed

This Strategic Plan was developed by the Ministry of State for Youth Affairs in close consultation with the youth and agencies working with young people and other stakeholders.
CHAPTER 2

2.0 INSTITUTIONAL REVIEW

2.1 Background

The Ministry of State for Youth Affairs was established on 7th December, 2005 to represent and address youth concerns in Kenya. This was found necessary against the backdrop that despite the numerical strength of young people, they are not well represented in the national, political, socioeconomic and development processes. As such, the Ministry was to coordinate and mainstream youth issues in the National Development agenda.

2.2 Mandate

The Ministry’s mandate is to:

- Promote youth development by designing policies and programmes that build young people’s capacity to resist risk factors and enhance protective factors;
- Develop a National Youth Policy (NYP) to ensure Kenyan youth participation in the development of the country;
- Facilitate establishment of a National Youth Council (NYC) to popularize the youth agenda;
- Coordinate youth organizations in the country to ensure youth development through structured organizations, collaborations and networking;
- Develop youth resource centers;
- Rehabilitate and expand youth polytechnics and the National Youth Service (NYS); and
- Facilitate training and preparation of the youth for Nation building.

2.3 Vision Statement

“A responsible and empowered youth, building a better Kenya”

2.4 Mission Statement

“To maximize the full potential of the youth through participatory engagements that serve their needs and aspirations in building a better Kenya.”

2.5 Core functions

Core functions are a set of activities that are central to the existence of the Ministry. They have been derived from the Ministry’s mandate and mission. MOYA’s core functions involve Empowerment; Co-ordination; Training and Mainstreaming of youth affairs. Specifically, the Ministry’s core functions embrace:

- Formulating, implementing, coordinating, reviewing and monitoring youth development policies;

- Facilitating youth participation in the development processes;
Ministry of State for Youth Affairs - Strategic Plan 2007-2012

- Coordinating and monitoring youth led initiatives;
- Advocating and promoting youth led initiatives;
- Developing youth resource centers; and
- Facilitating leadership, entrepreneurship and life skills training.

2.6 Policy Priorities
Policy priorities are based on eight strategic themes that form the basis for the Strategic Plan. These are:

- Youth and Employment
- Youth Empowerment and Participation
- Youth Education and Training
- Youth and Information Communication Technology
- Youth and Health
- Youth Crime and Drugs
- Youth and Environment
- Youth Leisure, Recreation and Community Service

2.7 Core values
The core values guiding the conduct of MOYA business include:

(a) Integrity and patriotism – MOYA will endeavor to guarantee citizens the best quality products, fast and efficient services. Its staff shall give their best to nation building by exhibiting high standards of integrity.

(b) Innovativeness and creativity – this is the basis of the future success of MOYA. Our commitment to service excellence will be demonstrated by our continuous improvement through creativity and innovations.

(c) Professionalism, Teamwork, and Excellence – MOYA values effective teamwork, networking and collaboration when delivering services. The Ministry will support and facilitate teamwork by recognizing both team and individual effort, output, continuous learning, accepting change and serving citizens professionally. We strive to attain the highest standards in all that we do.

(d) Inclusiveness – We strive to ensure effective youth participation and representation at all levels of decision making so that young people can gain sense of contributing something of value to the society, feeling connected to others and to society, believe that they have choices about their future and feeling of being positive and comfortable with their own destiny.

(e) Equity and equality: We strive to ensure equity and equality and advocate for structures, systems and processes that facilitate achievement of youth parity.

(f) Honesty and accountability: We will integrate good governance at all levels. We strive to serve Kenyan citizens in an honest, trustworthy and transparent manner.

3.0 SITUATIONAL ANALYSIS

3.1 Environmental Analysis

3.1.1 Globalization

Globalization, new technologies, and associated economic and social changes are challenging and continue to alter all aspects of the society. For example Kenyan youth continue to experience the impact of globalization on local cultures and values. In urban areas, the influence of foreign cultures is rapidly destroying local cultural ties and affiliations, generational ties, and imposing sets of values which are destructive and unattainable. As the youth try to adjust to these changes to harness opportunities presented, they need to have positive attitudes, a creative approach to issues and resilience to endure change. The challenge for MOYA therefore, is to support youth with programmes and policies that empower them to partake of the benefits offered by globalization and the spread of ICTs, while protecting them from negative consequences of a globalized economy.

3.1.2 Social Environment

The new millennium presents a picture of hopelessness to millions of youth in many African countries including Kenya. An increasing number of them suffer from poverty, drug abuse, unemployment, armed conflicts, human-rights violations and HIV/AIDS.

Young people represent a very high percentage of the populations in developing countries. In many Kenya, more than 50% of the population is under the age of 30. They are affected by growing the poverty, high levels of unemployment, changing family patterns, and deteriorating environmental and health conditions. The frequency of contact, and the population density in both rural and urban areas, further promotes the transmission of infections to which young people are vulnerable, especially HIV/AIDS.

HIV/AIDS has had a devastating impact on family units, health and education services as well as deepening impoverishment and social inequality. As a group, young people are the most vulnerable segment of the population in relation to the disease. It is estimated that the youth make up 33% of Kenyans infected with HIV/AIDS.
3.1.3 Economic Environment

Too many youth arrive at adulthood unprepared to contribute productively either as employees or productive citizens, yet they are the most heavily affected by the absence of sustainable employment. Generations of youth on the streets, attempting to generate an income for their families or themselves, have become a familiar sight in rural and urban areas. The lack of employment opportunities, even for school and university graduates, has placed many young people at risk, and contributes to rising levels of youth delinquency.

While the number of youth in secondary and tertiary institutions has increased, the labour market in Kenya is not able to accommodate this large group of skilled young graduates because there is minimal link between the education system and the labour market needs. In the absence of opportunities in the formal labour market, young people turn to self-employment in the informal sector, working in often hazardous conditions for low payment and with few prospects for the future. Young people also form a very significant group that migrates to other countries in search for jobs, thereby promoting brain drain.

Although the Government has encouraged the concepts of entrepreneurship and self-employment among the youth, there are relatively few micro financing initiatives specifically targeted at youth. Most of these initiatives are implemented by NGOs or other lending institutions. Many NGOs have provided youth training programmes aimed at enhancing life skills, job training and entrepreneurial skills. However, these initiatives appear too small in scale and resources to tackle the full scope of the youth unemployment problem. In order to have a real impact on youth unemployment therefore, there is need to increase financial commitments to youth employment initiatives. This fact has guided the creation of the Youth Enterprise Development Fund (YEDF).

3.1.4 Political Environment

Kenyan youth are the majority, yet their numbers do not translate into tangible access to power. With the opening of democratic space in the country, and demand for good governance, it was expected that youth would be included in decision making at all levels. However, they remain politically marginalized as they are often excluded from top leadership positions and access to political power. The creation of MOYA is likely to nurture youths into leadership and include them in decision making at all levels.
3.1.5 Technological Environment

Information and communication technology (ICT) is changing the lifestyles of youth in the global economy. ICT has affected leisure time habits, as larger portions of socializing among the youths will continue to take place through mobile phones and internet. The increasing use of ICT presents both opportunities and challenges in terms of the social development and inclusion of youth. It can empower young people and improve their lives through access to education and employment. As ICT has become a significant factor of development, it has a profound impact on political, economic and social life of young people. MOYA therefore faces major challenges that include introducing new information and communication technologies among the youth to promote social action and community development through electronic communications, e-learning, e-commerce, “cyber-participation” and “e-citizenship”.

3.1.6 Natural Environment

Increasing the participation of youth in environmental protection depends on strengthening opportunities for young people to participate in the decision making of government-supported organizations and NGOs. Attempts should be made to strengthen youth engagement together with youth organizations in the protection, prevention, and improvement of the environment by disseminating environmental information to enhance their involvement and participation in environmental justice and governance.

3.2 STAKEHOLDER ANALYSIS

Stakeholders are individuals or organizations that may either be affected by strategic choices made or can affect the outcome of the proposed strategies. Key stakeholders include:

- Leisure Associations
- Non-Governmental Organizations
- Ministry of Finance
- Development Partners
- Ministry Of Education
- Scouts And Girl Guides
- Ministry Of Health
- Medical Service Providers
- Directorate Of Personnel Management
- Public Service Commission
- Universities
- Religious Organizations
- Youth Serving Organizations.
3.3 CHALLENGES FACING KENYAN YOUTHS

3.3.1 Employment creation

There are about 500,000 youth who graduate from various tertiary institutions ready to enter the job market every year. However, due to the slow economic growth, corruption, nepotism and demand for experience by potential employers, 75% remain unemployed. There is need for MOYA to develop policies that will address unemployment problems and create an environment where the youth can exploit their potential through value adding initiatives.

3.3.2 Empowerment and Participation

One of the greatest challenges in Youth Empowerment and participation is how to ensure that young people are passionate about causing transformation in Kenya. Youth Empowerment and Participation is the quintessential force for causing such transformation. Young people need a youth branded platform from where they can speak powerfully, take appropriate action, and inspire belief that will have a catalytic impact all over the country through youth-led development initiatives. Youth empowerment and participation is a dynamic cycle. Overall, it is anticipated that the outcome of Youth Empowerment and participation is strong contribution to National prosperity, economic competition and reduced unemployment. When empowered, young people can contribute greatly towards good governance and democracy with a passionate desire to be catalyst for National Development. MOYA will be a catalyst for youth empowerment and participation.

3.3.3 Health

The uneven distribution of health facilities in the country continues to widen disparities in affordability and access to medical care. Statistics indicate that only 42% of the population has access to medical facilities within four kilometers and 75% within eight kilometers. Medical personnel are also too few to sufficiently address the health needs of the population, let alone those of the youth. Currently there is one doctor for every 33,000 people in the rural areas and 1,700 in the urban areas and it is estimated that only 12% of the health facilities are youth friendly.

Health has become a major issue among the youth. Apart from the traditional health problems like malaria, tuberculosis and the more conservative sexually transmitted diseases, the exponential spread of HIV/AIDS and drug abuse have become issues of major concern. Mental health is increasingly becoming a common problem among the youth. Depression, anxiety, eating disorders, psychosis and substance abuse are also becoming leading mental problems among the youth.

Furthermore, reproductive health is one of the issues with the greatest impact on the youth. Some related problems and side effects include teenage pregnancies and abortion. Other common health problems are malaria and acute respiratory infections, which account for about one half of outpatient cases. Other diseases the youth grapple with include skin infections, intestinal worms and diarrhea.

Current health facilities are also not youth-friendly. As such, there is a need for facilities that offer preventive and curative health services for the youth. Information on health should be made available to the youth too.

3.3.4 Education and training

The 8-4-4 system of education was geared to imparting appropriate skills to enhance self-employment. However, due to the high costs, poverty and lack of facilities, there have been high school dropout rates. Most of the youth either drop out of school or graduate without necessary skills for self-employment. Many girls drop out of school due to pregnancy.

The country’s training institutions are also either inadequate or lack the essential facilities and technology to prepare students for the challenging market demands. Recently, sub-standard training institutions have come up to take advantage of shortage of training opportunities to exploit desperate youth. In most cases, there is no linkage between the training institutions and either the formal or informal (jua kali) sector. The youth trained in these institutions cannot, therefore, be immediately absorbed into the job market. Besides this, society’s attitude towards the Jua kali sector discourages many youth from venturing into it, as they do not want to be regarded as failures in life.

3.3.5 Crime and Drugs

The early mid 1980’s saw a rapid growth in crime, drug and substance abuse among the youth in Kenya. Alcohol, cigarettes, khat (miraa), and cannabis sativa have remained the most popular abused substances. There is a fast emerging trend of injecting drug use especially narcotic. Moreover, abuse of drugs is highly associated with the risks of contracting HIV/Aids and other sexually transmitted diseases especially among the youth.

Violent criminal attacks, including rape, mugging, armed carjacking and home invasions are increasingly being associated with the youth these days. Over 50% of all the convicted criminals are young people aged between 16 and 25 years.

Despite that above trends, there are no studies done to confirm any relationship between the increased drug and substance abuse among the youth and the increasing rate of the crimes. MOYA must therefore collaborate with other stakeholders to research and come up with policies that would assist youth in this country overcome the challenge.
3.3.6 Leisure, recreation, and community service

Leisure, recreation and community service are important for the psychological and physical development of the youth. It contributes to their personal development by promoting good health, personal discipline, leadership and team building skills. It also provides opportunity for appreciation, participation and creative experience in leisure, music, art, dance, drama crafts, novelty events service and cultural activities. This helps engaging the youth to make good use of their leisure time, express their beliefs and values as well as promote and preserve local art and culture for the benefit of the future youth.

However, current investment in leisure and recreation has not reflected its importance. The sector suffers from inadequate funds and facilities while the talented youth lack motivation and are often exploited by organizations. Due to these constraints, it has not been possible to tap fully the talents of many youth.

3.3.7 Youth and Environment

Degradation of the environment, through pollution, poor waste management and deforestation, is a major challenge for Kenya. With the ensuing destruction of water catchments, depletion of fish and other marine stock, pollution of rivers and destruction of plants and animals, the youth cannot be assured of quality life in the future. The need to conserve the environment has become increasingly important and many youth organizations are engaged in activities to protect the environment such as tree planting, clean-up campaigns, bio-diversity conservation, wildlife preservation campaigns and agro-forestry.

3.3.8 Information and Communication Technology

Information and Communication Technology (ICT) may arguably be the most powerful tool for social and economic change. Rapid and continuing growth and development in ICT is transforming the ways in which youth live and work. Using internet for example, youth can get access to both domestic and international education and job opportunities on line. They can also share interests with peers and with the YEDF, can even advertise their products and get market information on any business of their choice.

Due to lack of access to information and communication technology (ICT) especially in rural areas, youth cannot exploit their career, business and education opportunities. There is need for MOYA to take advantage of benefits associated with ICT to foster youth development.
3.3.9 Youth with Special Needs

The categories of youths with special needs have been identified as the: Unemployed youth; Out of school youth; Female youth; Youth infected and affected by HIV/AIDS; Street youth; Physically, and Mentally challenged youth; and Youth in difficult circumstances. The Ministry will adopt an affirmative action of 10 percent in its programmes in favour of youth with special needs.

3.3.10 Access to Financial Resources

Traditional financial institutions have avoided lending to youth due to their relative inability to comply with the high transaction costs, difficulty in assessing and managing their risk profile, and lack of the required financial documentation as well as collateral.

The Ministry of State for Youth Affairs in partnership with various private Financial Intermediaries is administering the Youth Enterprise Development Fund to the youth. This fund has been specifically tailored to enhance the youth to develop with focus on self employment via entrepreneurship initiatives.

Youth can access these funds either as individuals or as groups and the collateral to secure the monies borrowed have been made affordable in the sense that they can be in form of group guarantee, guarantee by parents, relatives or and even community leaders.

With these eased regulations, MOYA hopes that youth in the country will be able to work towards the realisation of their life goals that were hindered by the tough regulations that have in the past barred them from accessing credit facilities.
3.4 SWOT ANALYSIS

A SWOT analysis of MOYA identified the following strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Strengths</th>
<th>Weaknesses</th>

3.5 STRATEGIC THEMES

The SWOT analysis enabled the identification of strategic issues that must be initiated to guide MOYA towards its vision. The strategic themes that will form the basis for concerted action in the next five years include: Youth and Employment; Youth Empowerment and participation; Youth Education and Training; Youth and Information Communication Technology; Youth and Health; Youth Crime and Drugs; Youth and Environment; and Leisure, Recreation and Community service.

3.5.1 Youth and Employment

Slow economic growth, rapid increase in the number of youth graduating from secondary and tertiary education institutions, and inability of both public and private sectors to accommodate this large group of skilled young graduates, accounts for youth unemployment in the country.

The Government has attempted to address youth unemployment in several policy documents such as Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper which extensively elaborates on youth employment strategies through youth entrepreneurial training, micro credit schemes, vocational training and career guidance service development, youth leadership training, and ICT skills training. During this Strategic Plan period, MOYA will collaborate with other stakeholders to implement these strategies with emphasis on increasing financial commitments to youth employment initiatives.

3.5.2 Youth Empowerment and Participation

MOYA recognizes the importance of youth participation in decision-making at all levels because this will lead to better policy formulation, implementation and evaluation. Youth inclusion strengthens their commitment to leadership, governance, understanding of human rights and democracy. In view of this, MOYA will encourage creation of opportunities for youth to participate in homes, schools and community developments.

Effective youth participation however, requires changes in how societies perceive views of young people, innovative ways to spread information in training to facilitate intergenerational collaboration, and in organizational structures that welcome new voices. MOYA will facilitate efforts undertaken to foster intergenerational relationships and support the capacity of young people to participate meaningfully in programmes and activities that affect them.
3.5.3 Youth Education And Training

To enhance education and training for the youth, strategies that will be applied include developing a curriculum for use in youth polytechnics, identifying, supporting and partnering efforts of communities, groups, non-profit organizations, places of worship, especially in technical, education and training. Similarly, promoting of exchange of information knowledge and human resources between the public and the private institutions as well as increasing bursary provision for needy students in Youth Polytechnics will be done.

Provision and improvement of existing training facilities for the youth and mainstreaming youth with special needs in youth training as well as vocational training and imparting life skills are among other strategies. Other strategies will be involving the youth in formulating and reviewing of the education and training policy as well as creating linkages between training institutions and the private sector through research internship opportunities and finance and encouraging the private sector to get involved in technical education and training.

3.5.4 Youth and Information Communication Technology

ICT has become a significant factor of development, having a profound impact on political, economic and social life of youth. Young people are using ICT to access knowledge, employment opportunities, entertainment, meetings and poverty eradication strategies. To take advantage of the benefits created by ICT, MOYA will create opportunities for youth participation through use of ICT for youth development.

3.5.5 Youth and Health

Progressive nations rely on healthy youth who can engage in nation building. However, youth who are the most productive people in the society have been greatly affected by various health problems especially HIV/AIDS.

MOYA will facilitate intervention policies and programmes at the national and local levels that include life skills-based HIV/AIDS information and education that would empower young people to make choices and decisions about their health. In addition, MOYA will liaise with other stakeholders to develop accessible, available and affordable primary health care services of high quality, including sexual and reproductive health care.

3.5.6 Youth, Crime and drugs

As a result of unemployment and the shortage of opportunities for gainful employment, some young people are drawn to a life of crime. A crime survey conducted in Nairobi by UN Habitat and the City Council in 2002 found that youth delinquency and crime is a major problem. Society’s reaction to youth crime also varies. Young people (who are also victims of crime) recognize the pressures that drive their peers to a life of crime. Adult victims are less sympathetic and call for harsh punishment for offenders. On the other hand, the justice system is largely perceived as being slow and corrupt, and many offenders are released after being arrested much to the frustration of the police. This also leads to repeat of offences.

Growing crime and drug abuse among the Kenyan youth contribute to high mortality and the risk of contracting HIV infection. MOYA will collaborate with other stakeholders to enforce preventive and treatment intervention policies such as minimum age drinking laws. However, all initiatives to address crime and drug use must take place within the overall strategy to reduce poverty, increase social inclusion across all sectors in society and allow the benefits of economic growth to be accessible to all.

3.5.7 Youth and Environment

The numerical strength of the young people offers a great resource for not only the care of the environment but also provides the potential to re-afforest Kenya. In recognition of this fact, strategies that will address the problem of environmental degradation will be commended. MOYA will facilitate and promote the formation of environmental clubs for the youth, strengthen the involvement of the youth in environmental conservation programmes and encourage the use of alternative sources of energy to protect forests from destruction.

3.5.8 Youth, Leisure, recreation, and community service

Leisure, recreation, and community service are important activities in the life of youth as they contribute to their personal development. These activities positively engage youth and are particularly important in promoting social skills and values such as teamwork, tolerance, physical skills and exploitation of natural talents. Although some young people undertake recreation activities for pure enjoyment, recreation and community service can be used to build networks that could lead to job opportunities. MOYA will focus on leisure and recreation needs of the youth by collaborating with stakeholders to include youth activities in their planning processes.

3.6 Mainstreaming Youth Issues

MOYA will facilitate mainstreaming of youth issues in all Ministries and sectors of the economy. This will provide a youth perspective at all stages of the development and implementation of policies, plans, programmes and projects.

It is evident that Kenya has lagged behind in formulating and implementing youth development policy and programmes. As such, key issues relating to youth are not being adequately addressed, and hence Kenya risk not attaining the millennium development goals of mainstreaming, promoting and empowering youth. Over the next 5 years therefore, MOYA will focus on mainstreaming formulation of policies that address youth development issues and concerns.

3.7 Gender Mainstreaming

Gender parity is pertinent in ensuring a responsible and empowered youth. Engendered development programmes and policies create a level field for both young men and women to participate in National Development. This calls for targeted actions aimed at empowering both female youth and the male youth.

Gender mainstreaming strategies are aimed at making young women’s and young men’s concerns and experience to be an integral dimension of design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies and programmes in MOYA. This will facilitate all youth to benefit equally and ensure that gender inequity is not perpetrated.

MINISTERIAL ORGANIZATION

The Ministry of Youth Affairs has three core departments. These are; Department of Youth Development, Department of Youth Training, and National Youth Service.

3.8.1 Department of Youth Development

The department of Youth Development was established with the mandate to develop interventions to address strategic issues in the areas of employment, empowerment; youth crime and drugs; leisure, recreation and community service; youth and health; youth and environment, and human resource development. The department promotes youth development by designing various policies and programs that build the young people’s capacity to resist risk factors and enhance protective factors.

3.8.2 Department of Youth Training

The youth training department was curved out from the industrial training unit in the Ministry of Labour and Human Resource Development to offer opportunities for the youth to gain relevant skills, knowledge and attitudes for the labour market. Its mandate is to:

- Review and develop curriculum for Youth Polytechnics(YPs)
- Develop national policy for YPs
- Develop YPs infrastructure
- Facilitate equipping YPs
- Offer youth leadership training
- Empower youth with ICT skills, and
- Equip youth with entrepreneurship skills

3.8.3 National Youth Service

The National Youth Service was established on 1st September, 1964 through an act of parliament as a department charged with the function of “training of young citizens to serve the nation and the employment of its members in tasks of national importance and otherwise in the service of the nation”. This mandate is covered in Section 17 of NYS Act Cap 208 Laws of Kenya. Specifically, the NYS is responsible for;
Providing training of Kenyan Youth for discipline and vocational skills development;
Service to the nation in tasks of national importance;
Coordination, Monitoring and Evaluation of Youth training programs for National development;
Reserve force of the Kenya Armed Forces – Section 17 NYS Act Cap 208; and Rehabilitation and training of disadvantaged youth.

3.8.4 General Administration and Planning

Administration and planning services are provided through a number of semi autonomous units. The units are Planning Unit; Administration; Human resource development; Procurement; Public relations, Information Communication and Technology; Finance; Accounts and Audit.

4.0 STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

4.1 Employment

Objective 1

Develop resource centers to assist youth on employment issues.

Activity

CHAPTER 5

5.0 RESOURCE MOBILIZATION

5.1 Resource Requirements and Mobilization

The resources that the Ministry will require to implement the Strategic Plan were also estimated. Funding for the Strategic Plan will be partly met through the Medium Term Expenditure Framework (MTEF) budget. However, given that the Ministry will be operating within tight a budgetary framework, full realization of the strategic objectives will largely depend on the goodwill of other development partners. Table 5.1 provides the Ministry’s costing of its activities and programmes to be funded over the plan period.

The total amount that will be available from GoK is estimated at about 49.7 billion. This amount is grossly insufficient and actually less than half the amount required to implement the Strategic Plan. Given this, other sources of funding will be vital for the realization of the stated strategic objectives.
5.3 Development Partners

Drawing from above, it is expected that development partners will be a major source of funding especially for development programmes. Some of the development partners have so far been working with the Ministry. These include; UNDP, JICA, UNICEF, UNFPA, DFID, UNEP. Besides, UN-HABITAT, KEFRI, UNESCO, World Bank, among others have expressed their willingness to work with Ministry.

To attract and facilitate increased collaboration with the development partners, the Ministry of Youth Affairs undertakes to promote transparency and accountability in planning and implementation of projects and programs, and ensure that donor funds are put into good use.

5.4 The Private Sector

The private can be a major source of funding to some Ministry projects and programs. Already the Ministry is in a process of developing a strategy to promote collaboration with the private sector in the implementation of its projects and programs.

Presently, the ongoing collaboration with the private financial institutions in the operationalization of YEDF is a success story. The Ministry will continue to work closely with the private sector to address other youth related issues. Besides, the private sector will be encouraged to develop and implement programs that are youth friendly.
CHAPTER 6

6.0 MONITORING AND EVALUATION

6.1 Ministry Level

The implementation of this Strategic Plan will be closely monitored to ensure that the strategic objectives are being realized as planned. The monitoring process will help determine whether the implementation is on course and establish the need for any adjustment in light of the ever-changing socio-economic and political environment.

Monitoring, follow-up and control systems will be emphasized at all levels. These will include progress reports, review meetings and reports, budgets and budgeting control systems and reports from special committees/task forces among others. The Ministry will conduct surveys to determine the impact of various programmes. Data will be analysed and results disseminated to improve plan implementation.

The plan will also be monitored through monthly and quarterly reports from the various implementing agencies both at headquarter and field level offices. The overall success of the plan will be assessed based on the planned activities.

Quarterly review meetings will be held between the senior staff and the Permanent Secretary (PS). During these meetings, the PS will receive and review progress reports from the directors indicating overall progress made on key strategic objectives. The nature and scope of reporting will include:

(a) Progress made against plan
(b) Causes of deviation from plan
(c) Areas of difficulties and alternative solutions to problems that may adversely affect implementation.

Tracking of specific activities associated with the implementation of the plan will be on regular basis, at least quarterly, so that adjustments can be made where necessary. The Ministry will adopt results-based management and rapid results initiatives to achieve its objectives. Furthermore, a mid-term review will be conducted in the third year of the plan period to assess progress.

The Ministry will also conduct action based research on various youth related issues. The research areas will be determined by the needs assessment exercises carried out on a regular basis in the various thematic areas.

6.2.1 Departmental level

Strategy alone does not mean the achievement or implementation of the objectives. Monitoring and evaluation provides the back up necessary to ensure that objectives are achieved. During the formulation of strategies, implementation plan indicators and projections were provided. These however may change in the course of the implementation and thus a management control system will be necessary to ensure the plan stays on course.
In carrying out the management control function, the following measures will be considered.

- performance standards and targets
- performance measurement indicators
- performance evaluation, (midterm and annual), based on the Performance appraisal system (PAS) targets.

The strategic control mechanism will embrace an evaluation of action plans, assessment of performance appraisal targets and change management.

3. To promote positive character change among the youth through participation in leisure, art and culture and community service

- Identifying and nurturing of leadership skills amongst the youth.
- Identifying leisuremen and leisure women and youth from other spheres to be used as role models.
- Liaise with other stakeholders to censor programs that promote negative character development.
- Facilitate forums for adults and youths to exchange ideas and views.
